TECHNIQUES

The first step in eliminating pests is to determine whether you have a problem with pests. Pests are what many people would identify as "water bugs" (because of their fondness for moist areas).

Then we determine what type of method is suitable here. After that we apply the appropriate method with the following procedure.

Sometimes, we spraying in the baseboards, underneath and behind appliances and in other areas where cockroaches frequent gives the long term control that we need. If we have to do our operation in the restaurant or hospitals, we need to change our techniques. In these sensitive areas, where we prefer to avoid the use of contact sensitive areas, where we prefer to avoid the use of contact pesticides, we use a professional bait to eliminate cockroaches.

Pest Control Service

For Rodent Control, we usually apply the latest and effective techniques. Glue-Board and trap methods are very common and effective.

Pre-Construction Termite control is more effective than post-construction. Although we apply the high quality medicine to get the highest result.
